January

The mass consolidation of the RIA space

Registered investment advisory firms are coupling in search of scale, deeper talent pools and private equity investment, and to create liquidity for founders. But concerns revolve around cultural integration challenges, reduced client choice and the loss of personalized client service.

The hype and promise of nuclear fusion

Investors including Sam Altman, Jeff Bezos, Bill Gates, Goldman Sachs and Chevron are pursuing the revolutionary technology. Then again, decades of R&D have yet to yield a sustained fusion reaction, let alone a single power plant.
